BOY IS VICTIM OF MISFORTUNE

Harold, Young Son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wolcott Suffered Broken Collar Bone.

AT FAIR GROUND YESTERDAY

Only Recently Recovered From Injury to Arm—Received Sprained Knee Last Year.

Harold, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wolcott, seems to be a victim of misfortune. He has had many accidents and always comes out safe and sound. He has had several bones broken in his body at different times and was still able to run and play as any other boy until yesterday, but now he is nursing a broken collar bone.

Young Wolcott was sitting on the fence around the track at the fair ground yesterday watching the races, when he suddenly fell off, striking the ground with his right shoulder and suffering a broken collar bone.

The young lad says that he started to climb down off of the fence, when his shoestring caught on one of the boards and caused him to fall. His parents, however, are of the opinion that he became exhausted from the excessive heat and fell over.

While attending the fair last year young Wolcott got a badly sprained knee and was unable to walk for several days. He has only just recently recovered from a bad fracture of his left arm which he received while playing.

HAD APPEARANCE OF BEING ROBBERY

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Miller Think Their Home Was Ransacked Yesterday Afternoon.

NOTHING WAS FOUND MISSING

There was every appearance that the house had been robbed when Mr. and Mrs. Glen Miller returned to their home near the corner of Morgan and First streets last evening. They went home from the fair about six o'clock and several things were out of their usual position and the first thought was that the house had been ransacked. A search was started, but nothing could be found missing. There was money in a drawer, which could easily have been found had anyone been in the house. Although nothing was taken Mr. and Mrs. Miller will not give up the robbery theory.

AUTO RUNS INTO A BUGGY

Greenfield Machine Damages Wheel—Occupants of Buggy are Angry.

There was a near smash-up near Second and Main street last evening about six o'clock. An auto and a buggy came together with the result that the wheel of the buggy was badly bent, and the occupants were angered considerably. The auto was from Greenfield and one of the occupants said the buggy backed into the machine and that the chauffeur stopped as soon as he saw the buggy getting in the way of the machine.

SON WAS KILLED BY AUTO

John Kellum Here on Way Home from Mechanician's Funeral.

John Kellum, father of Claude Kellum, the mechanic who was killed in the automobile races at Indianapolis last Saturday, was here yesterday. Mr. Kellum was here on his way home to Connersville after attending his son's funeral in Indianapolis. Mr. Kellum is known to several people in this city.

DRIVER THROWN FROM HIS SULKY

Franklin Man Painfully Injured in Accident During Races at the Fair Thursday.

HORSE FELL TAKING A TURN.

J. Boles, of Franklin, was the victim of what might have proved a fatal accident at the ground yesterday afternoon. As the horse, Ruby Walters, was rounding the east turn in the first lap of the last heat of the 2:17 pace, the horse stumbled and fell. The driver was thrown into the air and about twenty-five feet in front of the horse. He was badly bruised and his left arm was badly sprained. It was at first thought that his arm was broken, but after he was brought to Dr. J. G. Lewis' office, in the Elmer Caldwell automobile, it was found the injury was not so serious. He was able to be taken to his home last night. The horse was not seriously injured.

In the second lap of the same heat and near the same place, Tony Boy, driven by George Rouit, of Muncie, fell but regained his feet and finished the heat. The driver's work and the horse's quick work in recovering its feet caused much comment.

Recent discoveries in Norway of human bones mixed with hearth ashes indicate that the cave dwellers of the North cape were cannibals.

ANOTHER BIG CROWD TODAY

People Begin March Early to Attend the Closing Day of the Rush County Fair.

NEWSBOYS BAND ATTRACTION

Light Harness Exhibits and Annual Parade of Prize Live Stock Also Features.

A record breaking crowd was on the fair ground Thursday and estimates ran all the way from 12,000 to 15,000. President Jones of the fair was sure there were 15,000 people on the ground.

And things started off with a rush this morning, so that the fair management believed that the record for a Friday crowd would be broken. Farmers began coming in early and although the crowd was nothing to the throng of yesterday, there was a big crowd on the grounds by ten o'clock.

The Indianapolis News Newsboy band arrived this morning and was one of the leading attractions at the fair today. As far as exhibits went this was the big day of the fair. The light harness entries were shown this morning and the annual parade of prize live stock attracted many as it always does. Nassr's airship was on the program for a flight about noon. The flight was made earlier today to allow the aeronaut to leave this afternoon for Shelbyville, Missouri, where he will make several flights next week.

It was the same old fair yesterday and the crowds were well pleased as they always are. They realized that they were attending one of the best fairs ever held in Rush county. They appreciated this and had lots of fun all day. The privilege men, especially the stands, did a rushing business and made some money. The fact that the old well on the east side of the grounds went dry boosted the sale of lemonade several notches.

A thing that fooled many people in their estimates of the crowd yesterday was the fact that the people were scattered more than ever before. Not only was the Pit open to the public, but there were more people on the west hill yesterday than ever before. The fact that there were so many shows on the ground kept several hundred people under cover all the time.

The races, although not fast owing to the very heavy track were interesting and every heat was closely contested both in the pace and the trot. The Rushville band furnished music and between the heats of the races entertained the crowds.

The summary of the races follow:

In the island of Savii, in the Samoan group, during an August night in the year 1905, there arose from the midst of a peaceful cocoa plantation a volcano that in the four years of its still ceaseless activity had sent forth more molten lava than has any other volcano of which there is any record.

NASSR LEAVES TODAY FOR WEST

Three Flights Thursday Were the Most Successful of His Trips During the Week.

PEOPLE PRAISE HIS WORK

Fair Management Pleased and Tony Nassr Has Made Hundreds of Friends This Week.

Tony Nassr in his airship not only filled the requirements of his contract yesterday, but he went the management two better and made three flights. His work yesterday was by far the best of the week and that is saying a great deal. He made his first flight about one o'clock and this was short, although successful. In his second trip about four o'clock he performed to the satisfaction of the thousands who saw him, and received a hearty cheer after he made a graceful landing.

In this trip he circled over the fair ground, showed that he had perfect control over the machine and went where and when he wished to. It was his last trip which exceeded anything he has attempted this week. This time he started toward town, and could have completed the trip if he had so desired. As it was he went to the river, turned and came back in remarkably short time. This was against a breeze which at the height at which the machine was flying was going at a good clip. He sailed almost directly against the current of air with practically no tacking. When he came back he received another hearty cheer from the crowd.

Without a single exception this attraction has been the best ever brought here by any fair association and was not only the means of drawing thousands of people, but pleased every single one of them who saw the work. Many were skeptical and thought Nassr would do well if he made even a near success at one flight. These same people are loudest in their praise of his work now and if recommendations would do any good, would gladly give them to this man who has shown that he has mastered the art of managing the dirigible balloon.

The fair management is more than pleased with his work and feels that the engagement has been a success in every way. Although the attraction was one of the most pretentious and the most expensive ever brought here the association is sure that it has been a paying proposition.

Another thing which has made a great hit with people who have had any dealings with Mr. Nassr is the fact that he is a perfect gentleman in all that the term implies. He is courteous, makes friends wherever he goes, and is entirely different from the man generally pictured in such a place. He is very unassuming, looks after other people's interests as well as his own and is patient in spite of the many trying things with which he has to contend.

Mr. Nassr expected to make a flight early today and leave this afternoon for Shelbyville, Missouri, where he has an engagement for next week. It was necessary for him to leave this afternoon in order to get ready to make his first flight next week on schedule time. He says he is well pleased with his treatment here, and hopes that he has pleased the people well enough to obtain another engagement here next year.

SURE IT WAS.

Shelbyville Democrat: Fred Dunbar was in Rushville attending the fair yesterday. He reports that the flight of the dirigible airship was a great success.

REVENUE OFFICER FINDS NOTHING

A. A. Kinsley Pleased After Inspection of Fair Grounds Says That He Bought Good Lemonade.

HIS FREQUENT VISITS HERE

A. A. Kinsley of Hartford City, the revenue officer who was here yesterday just looking things over, says that the lid was surely on. He said things were very satisfactory as far as he could learn and he made a close inspection of the fair ground.

"Why I even got a glass of good lemonade on the fair ground and that's going some you know," he said.

Mr. Kinsley makes frequent trips here and is well known especially to cigar men. He left this morning for Indianapolis, where his son Guy R. Kinsley, is a reporter on the Indianapolis News.

BOYD AGAIN GETS LARGE PREMIUMS

Local Man Makes Big Winnings With His Fine Jerseys at Shelbyville, Kentucky.

IN A JERSEY COUNTRY, TOO

J. F. Boyd had his herd of fine Jerseys at Shelbyville, Kentucky, this week and won more than any other exhibitor, although there were 117 head of cattle entered. Mr. Boyd is especially proud of the fact that he won the sweepstakes and the premiums for the grand champion bull with a one-year-old calf. Shelby county, Ky., is one of the best in the country for fine Jerseys, which made the winnings all the more remarkable.

Mr. Boyd won first on one-year-old bull, three-year-old cow, and breeders' young herd. He got second premium on aged bull, second and third on heifer calf under six months, second on exhibitor's herd, third on get of sire, sweepstakes on bull under two years, grand champion bull of any age, on one-year-old calf.

LIKE WATSON IN IOWA TOWN

Farmington News Praises Former Indiana Congressman Who Spoke at Chautauqua There.

BOTH LAFOLLETTE AND BRYAN

Remembered by Rushville Man in His Speech—No Gymnastics Are Needed For Him.

A copy of the Farmington, Iowa, News contains an account of James E. Watson's speech at the chautauqua there. The Farmington chautauqua is larger than the one here and the expenses there this year were almost double the cost of Rushville's chautauqua. The Farmington News says:

At two o'clock Sunday afternoon Vice President J. C. Shipp introduced Hon. James E. Watson of Indiana. Watson is a fine looking type of the big hearted American citizen. He is clean spoken and plain spoken. It is doubtful if in five years any other man ever made a better impression with all our people. His lecture was full of sound sense and was devoid of everything intended for grand-stand show. Watson does not need to play upon words, nor does he resort to gymnastics to hold an audience. His sentences are clean and possess the ring of sincerity, which carries conviction, and wins admiration. We can only give a few of his sayings, among which were:

There are two dangers to our country and its people, the demagogue and the malignant newspaper. The demagogue tries to make men think that their passion is wisdom. You can't count on the demagogue, for they are liars and deceivers.

A majority of the people, at first thought, are as apt to be wrong as one man.

The people wobble a great deal, but they generally wobble around and get right.

Uncle Sam has no chains on any man, but my dramatic friend Bob LaFollette continues to shout, "I don't know how much longer I can bear up the burden of people," and Watson added—"just as long as he can collect $200 per lecture at the ticket office."

Bryan is the Rockefeller of the chautauqua platform—makes more money than anybody, just like John D. makes it out of coal oil.

Character is our ideal.

What is success? Find your place and fill it and you will never find it any other way. Fill it out—not like a shot rattling around in a gourd.

We grow like the things we think about.

We find what we are looking for—and the things we are looking for fill in theman.

EXTRAVAGANCE IS THE CHARGE

Canal Commission Accused by New York Congressman.

THE OPENING GUN, HE SAYS

In a Letter to Secretary of War, Representative Bennett Makes Charges of Gross Extravagance and Favoritism Against the Purchasing Department of the Isthmian Canal Commission, and Intimates That There Is More to Follow—On This Circumstance Is Based a Demand For a Central Purchasing Bureau For the Government.

New York, Aug. 27.—In a letter to the secretary of war, made public here, Representative William S. Bennett charges the purchasing department of the Isthmian canal commission with gross extravagance and favoritism in connection with the purchase of paint used for the barges, dredges and other vessels engaged in canal work. His letter, he says, is only the opening gun in a campaign which he hopes may result in the establishment of a central purchasing bureau for the government.

"It is reasonable to assume," the letter concludes, "that a purchasing department which has bought nearly fourteen times as much of an article as was necessary and under circumstances where apparently it could not be used, is engaged in other similar and possibly larger transactions."

In a supplementary statement Mr. Bennett says: "The contract system in all governmental departments is subject to criticism. There should be a central purchasing bureau for the United States government, and then the possibilities of graft would be reduced to a minimum. I have information of its peculiarities, not alone about paint in connection with the purchasing department of the canal commission, but about cement and other materials. There is one instance I know of, where a contract for cement was closed with a concern whose price was between $600,000 and $800,000 above that of the lowest bidder."

TO GUARD VESSELS

Cholera Will Not Be Permitted to Land on Our Shores.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Surgeon General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service, has cabled Assistant Surgeon Robert A. C. Wollenburg, stationed at Naples, to proceed at once to Rotterdam, where cholera has appeared, to assist American Consul Listoe in seeing that the treasury department regulations regarding vessels sailing for the United States are carried out. The greatest precautions are to be taken to prevent the introduction of the disease into the United States.

Rotterdam Invaded by Cholera.

Rotterdam, Aug. 27.—The death of four children supposed to have been caused by poisonous sweets has been found, after a bacteriological examination, to have been due to Asiatic cholera. One man also died recently from a suspicious illness, and fourteen adults and fourteen children are under observation at the isolation sheds.

"YELLOW" DENOUNCED

Americans in Mexico Jump Onto Faking Correspondents.

Mexico City, Aug. 27.—The Society of the American Colony, representing 10,000 Americans living in Mexico city and vicinity, adopted resolutions censuring the wild stories sent out by special correspondents along the Mexican-American border which assumed to picture conditions and relate happenings occurring within this republic. The resolutions stated that grossly exaggerated reports of the damage done to Mexico city by the recent earthquakes were traced to these sources and appealed "to the fairness of the management" of the papers printing these reports to consider their source in the future.

May Close This Afternoon.

Omaha, Aug. 27.—Nothing but argument of counsel remains for the court-martial in the case of former Corporal Lisle Crabtree, on trial for the killing of his captain in June at Fort Des Moines, and unless the defense speaks at great length, the case may come to an end this afternoon.

LATHAM GETS HIS REVENGE

Defeated at Channel He Makes Good at Rheims.

HIS NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENTS

Not Only Did He Establish a New Record For Distance Flight, but He Lopped Off a Bit of the Record For Speed—Prolonged Flight at Aviation Field Marked by Beauty and Impresiveness—Further Accidents Mar Contest of Airships.

Rheims, France, Aug. 27.—The French aviator, Hubert Latham, took glorious revenge for the hard luck which he experienced in his recent attempts to cross the English channel, and his indefatigable but hitherto unsuccessful efforts to accomplish some notable achievements during the present meeting by establishing a new world's record for distance, 154 kilometres, 650 metres, or 95.88 miles. Latham covered fifteen laps, or 150 kilometres, in 2 hours, 13 minutes, 9 seconds, and the full distance in 2 hours, 18 minutes, 9.35 seconds, which also are world's records, the flight being at the rate of about 68½ kilometres an hour, as compared with 53½ made by Wright and a fraction under 50 made by Paulhan.

Except for the one-lap speed records made by Bleriot and Curtiss this week, and Paulhan's time record in the air, Latham now holds every record for distance and speed. Like Paulhan, he descended only when the gasoline tank was empty.

Nothing could have exceeded the beauty and impressiveness of the prolonged flight. In grace of lines no other aeroplane here compares with Latham's monoplane. The slightly tilted planes from the long, skiff-like body gives it a resemblance, when close, to a winged canoe, while sailing high up in the air it looks from the distance like a mammoth dragon fly. For an hour with fluttering wings, like a living thing, it fought its way against the storm of wind and rain at an average height of 150 feet, mounting higher as the wind rose, until during the worst of the storm it was up fully 300 feet. The contention of the advocates of the bi-plane that the monoplane would be unable to live in a strong breeze has been amply refuted.

Latham earlier in the day, with "Number 13," another aeroplane of the same type, made a flight of more than seventy kilometres, and after he had finished in the afternoon, Count De Lambert covered 116 kilometres (72.3 miles) in commanding fashion. Three flights therefore in a single day totalled more than 210 miles.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the American, had two practice spins, but although his machine behaved splendidly, its speed was disappointing. An accident which Bleriot suffered about dusk may improve Curtiss's chances for the international cup. While trying to alight in front of the tribune with a passenger aboard his big 80-horsepower machine, Bleriot crashed into a fence, the wings and propeller being broken. He narrowly missed killing several of the spectators. Whether or not the motor was injured has not been definitely determined. If so Curtiss's most dangerous rival has been put at a disadvantage, as Bleriot intended to use the wrecked machine in the international event, although he qualified with another.

Rougier, also while giving an exhibition, landed among a crowd lunching in the grass and slightly injured two women and a man. Bleriot insists that his accident was not due to

PROPRIETARY MEDICINE FRAUDS

There have been plenty of them, no doubt, and they have been vigorously condemned—so vigorously, that every sort of medicine, the formula of which is privately owned, is condemned and pronounced "unethical" by the Medical Profession.

Eckman's Alternative deserves attention, not because it is a "proprietary" but because it really has cured many cases of Tuberculosis. If it is a fraud it needs exposing badly, because a number of cured Consumptives will need to find some other reason for being well.

Henry Clay said he would rather be right than be President. Is it not better for Eckman's Alternative to make cures than to be ethical?

Weldon, Ill., Feb. 3, 1906. In July, 1905, my physician sent me to Texas, from there to Colorado. I became worse and was sent home to die. I heard of Eckman's Alternative, began treatment, and was cured. I earnestly recommend Eckman's wonderful cure for Consumption. (Signed affidavit) Arthur Webb. recklessness, with which he was charged by the crowd. He asserts that a squadron of dragoons was moving across the field and crowded him toward the fence, compelling him to choose between landing among the horses or into the barrier.

Distinguished Onlookers.

Paris, Aug. 27.—Ambassador and Mrs. White are planning to go down to Rheims to witness the flights at Betheny tomorrow. They will escort Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her children. Robert Bacon, who has been staying in Paris, has been invited to join the party and will probably accept. Mr. Bacon is planning to return to America next week.

Flagman Killed by Train.

Lebanon, Ind., Aug. 27.—Patrick Fitzgibbons, eighty-five years old, a flagman on the Big Four, was run over by a cut of cars and killed. Fitzgibbons had stepped on a sidetrack while a passenger train was passing. A freight engine backed into some cars, and the sudden jar knocked the aged man down and he was terribly crushed. Mr. Fitzgibbons has been in the employ of the Big Four for sixty years.

Kills Two Men at One Shot.

Newark, O., Aug. 27.—Firing a single charge of buckshot at two supposed chicken thieves, Charles Hartshorn, sr., instantly killed John Weakley and William Trace. For a long time Hartshorn has been missing chickens. Armed with a gun, he kept watch on his orchard on his farm. When two forms appeared in the dark

No More Gray Hair.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

Profit by the experiences of others. It may save your life.

The experience of friends and neighbors.

The testimony of Rushville people Will bring renewed encouragement. Here is a case in point:

Mason Maxey, 836 W. Third street, Rushville, Ind., says: "No remedy I ever used benefited me as greatly as Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. I was subject to attacks of kidney and bladder trouble for years and I had almost despaired of ever finding relief. The kidney secretions passed far too frequently and the most acute twinges darted through my loins at unexpected times. Finally I made up my mind to try Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a supply from F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. They relieved me promptly and this convinced me of their great worth."

BANK FOR SPINSTERS.

Bostonians Plan to Make Single Women Independent.

A movement has been started in Boston by Mrs. Glendower Evans, a well known clubwoman, to establish a pension bank for spinsters, which, she believes, will do away with mercenary marriages, penniless spinsters, worry about husbands and jokes about old maids. She has already presented her plan to the members of the Massachusetts insurance commission and has interested many clubwomen in her project. Her first problem was to determine the age of the spinster, and after careful deliberation she decided that it begins at forty years. Before that age, she says, a woman has good chances of matrimony. A depositor, however, may open an account with the insurance bank as early in life as she pleases, and if she marries before she is forty she receives a goodly sum to start housekeeping with. If she remains unmarried she retains her bank account and at the age of fifty begins to receive a regular annuity. If a woman decides to marry after reaching the age of forty she gets her money back on demand.

The plan is so unusual that Mrs. Evans expects to encounter difficulty. She thinks, and some opposition in making women understand that the plan is to their advantage. But she has a philanthropic band of Boston women back of her who are ready and willing to explain the spinster insurance principle to spinsters.

The insurance commission declares that it is the most unusual banking proposition ever advanced in America and that the women interested are energetic enough to make it conform to the Massachusetts insurance laws.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Cor. xiii, 1-13.
Memory Verse, 8—Golden Text, I
Cor. xiii, 13—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

We have been reading in the Acts of people in many places who, having heard of the living and true God and of His Son Jesus Christ our Lord, who gave Himself for our sins that He might purify unto Himself a peculiar people zealous of good works, a people to represent Him here a little while and then share His kingdom and glory forever, truly received Him and were willing to endure anything for His sake if only they could win others to Him. Paul tells us in this epistle that he would endure anything rather than hinder the gospel of Christ and that his aim was by all means to save some (chapter ix, 12, 22). Believers are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called saints, called unto the fellowship of Jesus Christ our Lord to be laborers together with God, blood bought temples of the Holy Spirit who worketh in each one as He pleases, dividing to each His gifts severally as He will (chapters i, 2, 9; iii, 9; vi, 19, 20; xii, 4-11). If we had the choice of gifts one might prefer wisdom, another knowledge, another faith, another gifts of healing, another tongues, etc., but here Paul says by the Spirit that, while it is well to covet the best gifts, there is a more excellent way, the way of love, and that is our lesson today. To know and believe the love which God hath to us and to live in that love as manifested in Jesus Christ should constrain us to such yieldedness and restful confidence in Him that His choice for us as to place or manner of service will be always most satisfactory to us. Esther might have asked and received many things from the king's chamberlain when her turn came to appear before the king; but, being in herself fair of form and good of countenance, she asked nothing but what the keeper appointed (Est. ii, 7, margin, 15). If our aim is to please our King and be beautiful to Him we will be quite satisfied with all His appointments for us.

Strangely, we have come to a time when the matter of speaking in tongues is very much on some minds, but a study of chapter xiv teaches us that it is better to utter words easy to be understood, even five such words, than ten thousand words which no one can understand (xiv, 2, 19). No name of God or of Christ is found in our lesson chapter; but, as one has said, a photograph of a dear friend does not require the friend's name on it to enable us to recognize it, and we have here a most beautiful word picture of the Lord Jesus, for in no one else was such love ever seen. It seems unnecessary to say that the word "charity" should be "love" as it is in the revised version, and it is evidently the love of John iii, 16; I John iii, 16; iv, 9-11.

The love of God is the greatest thing mortals ever heard of, and the greatest love of mortals is but the faintest reflection of the infinite love of God. The first three verses of our lesson are most startling when we consider how much eloquence and oratory and knowledge and a kind of faith and giving of money and self sacrifice may all go for nothing—just wood, hay and stubble to be burned. When we think of the speaking and singing that abound simply for the money that is in them, and the many other things simply to obtain praise from men or from a sense of duty, and that nothing counts in God's sight that is not from love to Him, is it not all most heart searching? Then see in verses 4 to 7 the quality of this love. It is kind even to those who make it suffer, never jealous or envious or self assertive or proud, never provoked, never thinks or speaks evil of any one, rejoices only in what is true and goes on bearing, believing, hoping and being all things for love's sake. It was truly never so seen but in Christ Himself, and yet He desires to reproduce that life in His redeemed ones (I Cor. iv, 10, 11; Gal. ii, 20) and will if we are only willing to die to self and let Him rule in our hearts. It means such a handing over of ourselves to Him that we have no say in anything any more, but that we just live in that good and acceptable and perfect will of God.

This age in which we now live, with its teaching and tongues and knowledge, shall give place to a better age in which love shall be more fully seen on earth. There is nothing perfect now on our part. Everything is only in part, as far as our knowledge of God and manifestation of the life of Jesus are concerned, but then we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is. Even our bodies shall be like His, immortal, incorruptible (xv, 50-53; Phil. iii, 20, 21). While we shall not be truly of age and enjoy eternal life fully till the resurrection of our bodies, for which even such as Abraham and others still wait (Heb. xi, 39, 40), we should live more than we do in the power of the age to come and not talk and act so much like babes who live only on milk (chapter iii, 1-4). God's child in this world is not what he will be, has not what he will have and sees not what he will see, but while here may receive fully and in childlike simplicity the revelation of God, exercising simple faith in what God says.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week
Beginning Aug. 29, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.
Topic.—Home missions; our cosmopolitan population.—Luke xiii, 22-30.

One of the great factors in home mission work today is that of the population of our great cities, many of whom have no abiding place, but wander about from place to place, and hundreds of thousands of whom are strangers from strange lands and consequently unfamiliar with our national customs and institutions and religion. The supreme court of the United States has decided that Christianity is our national religion, yet they know little or nothing about it, and many of them care less. Yet there need be no despair and no fear concerning the large number of immigrants in our large cities. Many classes of them are of course undesirable—illiterate, anarchistic and irreligious. But the public schools will take care of the illiteracy. In the section of our cities where these foreigners segregate the children attend the public schools. They are taught, of course, in the English language, and it is remarkable what progress they make both in education and in patterning after American customs and habits. Take the Italians, whom so many people dread. In Philadelphia one section of the city contains 90,000 Italians. The changes made in the young people and children in a few years must be seen to be fully comprehended. They are a handsome race, with their dark skin and intensely black eyes, and when properly cleaned and nicely dressed they are a class of young people of whom any nation might be proud. But they are apt to learn, and in two or three generations, through intermarrying, which is sure to increase, as it has already begun, we shall not be able to recognize them as immigrants from southern Italy. Many of the boys and girls and young men and women are employed in large department stores and in various kinds of factories. Their fathers may be "dagos" and their mothers keepers of small shops, but the children will never be. Education in the public schools and association with American children will change all this in one generation.

The undesirable populations if they attempt or do wrong will be cared for by the police departments of our great cities. But, after all, they are not, in general, classes of criminals. Many of them must have their beer and other drinks, but they usually get them Saturday nights and take them to their homes, where they have what they call "a good time." In drink they may be quarrelsome, but only among themselves. Few Americans if they attend to their own business will be disturbed by foreigners. Though they may look rough, usually as a result of the kind of work they do, they are remarkably inoffensive. They respect womanhood. They work steadily at the hardest kind of work—build our railroads, mine our coal and other ores. The Italians are exceedingly jealous and hesitate not a minute to kill any one who interferes with their love affairs or casts any reflection upon their daughters or wives. There is no menace to the nation even in the millions of foreigners within our boundaries. They will soon learn to love Old Glory and shout as the rest of us, though we, too, are of foreign descent unless we are Indians.

When it comes to their religion the church must take care of that. Christ preached in the streets of towns and cities, and we must do likewise. They will not come to us, so we must go to them, and that means to begin in the streets or in temporary places amid them. Street preaching is more popular today. We are all getting used to it, and it may have been providentially arranged for such a time as this and such a work. Our Italian mission was established in a large city of our land by street preaching. Then followed a tent, next a tabernacle of iron, and today they worship in a fine stone church building capable of seating 1,700 people. A daily kindergarten is provided for and carried on. The church has fully 500 active members and a great following. Another work was begun among foreigners by the formation of a Sunday class for them. Today a mission has been organized, and preparations are being made for the erection of a church building. "All things are possible with God." Get in religious touch with the foreigners about you, whether they be one or two families in a small hamlet or hundreds of thousands in a large city.

TO MAKE RACES SAFE

American Automobile Association Will Revise Track Rules.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 27.—S. H. Elliott of New York, secretary of the American Automobile association, who has arrived here enroute to the good roads convention at Cleveland, says: "There will be radical and vital changes in the rules governing automobile speed and endurance contests as the result of the fatalities in the races recently held in Indianapolis."

"I have just returned from Indianapolis," continued Mr. Elliott, "where I went in the hope that they had solved, as they claimed they had, the problem of holding speed races with the danger of fatalities reduced to a minimum. Instead of being better, it was worse. The inevitable result will be that the executive committee of the American Automobile association will formulate rules for the management of these contests in future. These regulations will be submitted to the contest board and these contests in future will be conducted on sane lines."

DYING GIRL MAKES SERIOUS CHARGES

An Indiana Village In Ferment
Over This Case.

Attica, Ind., Aug. 27.—The village of Winthrop, six miles north, has been thrown into a ferment by the death of Miss May Best, a girl not yet fourteen years old, from Paris green poisoning. It was supposed the girl had committed suicide, but shortly before her death she made a statement to her father in which she declared that Mrs. John Yocum, wife of a railway section foreman at Winthrop, had forced her to take the drug. She also accused the husband of wrong doing.

Yocum has left and his wife is under surveillance while the Warren county coroner is making an investigation. The girl's mother is dead and she kept house for her father, Frank Best, an industrious and respectable citizen. The girl spent much time at Yocum's home, and the neighbors declare that the woman exercised an unusual influence over her. She possessed much beauty and had borne a spotless reputation. The feeling is high against Yocum.

Strange Epidemic Among Babies.

New York, Aug. 27.—More than 200 children in a limited district of Brooklyn have been stricken within the past few days with a form of infantile paralysis. Not even the healthiest children are immune from the epidemic, and bottle-fed babies seem the most susceptible. Although the disease does not appear to be fatal, Brooklyn physicians believe that many of the victims will be crippled for life.

Striking at Wildcatting.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 27.—The home of George Richardson was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $50,000. There were clear evidences of incendiarism as well as evidences of a similar attempt on two neighboring houses. It is thought a lunatic was responsible for the incendiary

Encouragement of Manual Training Would Efface Social Distinction.

By Professor CHARLES S. HOWE, President of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

MANY people have come to believe that it is NECESSARY TO TRAIN THE EYE AND THE HAND OF THE CHILD AS WELL AS THE MIND, that this is a part of true education and that INTELLECTUAL GROWTH AND CULTURE may come through this kind of training as well as through that which has prevailed in the past ages.

I doubt if we have yet reached the point where the FULL VALUE of this training is understood. Manual training has been introduced into a few schools. Nearly all of the larger cities give a little of it in the seventh and eighth grades, and they give some work, which is called manual training, in all grades—from the first to the eighth. In many other cities and towns the manual training work is confined to the high school, where a slight amount of it is given in connection with the other work.

If manual training work for the boy or girl is to reach its FULL VALUE in the development of the mind and in the increase of knowledge, it must start with the design of something, no matter how simple, and proceed through the several steps until the finished product is reached.

WHEN MANUAL TRAINING WORK IS REQUIRED IN ALL SCHOOLS THE GREAT GULF WHICH NOW EXISTS BETWEEN THE COLLEGE GRADUATE OF WEALTH AND SOCIAL POSITION AND THE MECHANIC WHO BEGAN TO BE A WAGE EARNER WHEN HE OUGHT TO HAVE BEEN IN SCHOOL WILL BE IN PART BRIDGED OVER, AND WE SHALL NOT HEAR AS MUCH AS WE DO NOW ABOUT THE DIFFERENT CLASSES OF SOCIETY AND THE ANTAGONISM THAT EXISTS BETWEEN THEM.

THIRTEEN WIDOWS ON PENSION LIST

Husbands Fought in the War of 1812.

Old Men Married Young Women.

MORE FACTS ABOUT PENSIONS

Of the 58,000 pension checks sent out from Indiana headquarters in the federal building for the quarterly payment of pensions thirteen go to the widows of veterans of the war of 1812. The seemingly impossible fact is due to the old men marrying young women, according to Indiana Pension Agent Albert O. Marsh. Checks are also made out for 111 survivors of the Mexican war of 1846-47, and to 306 widows of Mexican war soldiers.

The average pension of Indiana veterans is about $36, and the highest $300 for the quarter. The total amount paid out in pensions in the State this quarter is approximately $2,500,000, amounting to more than $11,000,000 for the entire year. To handle this great business a force of more than forty employees is necessary, fifteen or twenty of this number being extra clerks employed during the time for receiving the quarterly pension vouchers and issuing the checks.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Of course the I. & C. officials did not know that George Kelly and Miss Curtis Lore had spent the afternoon together on the fair ground. But the car was crowded and the officials thought the very last one had got on that could ride. Miss Lore was the last. George stood and watched the car pull out, and wished there had been room for one more. And now their friends are having a lot of fun out of it.

FORM ONE MORE HABIT

YOU HAVE probably not yet formed enough "habits." It is likely that you would find the "ad-answering habit" a dividend paying one—and one that would never lure you far away from the best thrift-creed ever devised.

A habit is usually formed through yielding to natural inclination. The ad-answering habit will have to be cultivated—perhaps against present inclination, and through an effort of will.

You are not in the habit of saying "impossible" are you?

CHAPTER X.

At the Three Horses.
"Clean them out of the Rocky mountains; that is a pretty good contract," mused the man in McCloud's office on Sunday morning. He sat opposite McCloud in Bucks' old easy chair and held in his hand Bucks' telegram. As he spoke he raised his eyebrows and settled back, but the unusual depth of the chair and the shortness of his legs left his chin helpless in his black tie, so that he was really no better off except that he had changed one position of discomfort for another.

A clerk opened the outer office door. "Mr. Dancing asks if he can see you, Mr. McCloud."

"Tell him I am busy," Bill Dancing, close on the clerk's heels, spoke for himself. "I know it, Mr. McCloud, I know it!" he interposed, urgently, "but let me speak to you just a moment." Hat in hand, Bill, because no one would knock him down to keep him out, pushed into the room. "I've got a plan," he urged, "in regards to getting these hold-ups."

"How are you, Bill?" exclaimed the man in the easy chair, jumping hastily to his feet and shaking Dancing's hand. Then quite as hastily he sat down, crossed his knees violently, stared at the giant lineman, and exclaimed: "Let's have it!"

Dancing looked at him in silence and with some contempt. The train-master had broken in on the superintendent for a moment and the two were conferring in an undertone. "What might your name be, mister?" growled Dancing, addressing with some condescension the man in the easy chair.

The man waved his hand as if it were immaterial and answered with a single word: "Forgotten!"

"How's that?" "Forgotten!"

Dancing looked from one man to the other, but McCloud appeared pre-occupied and his visitor seemed wholly serious. "I don't want to take too much on myself—" Bill began, speaking to McCloud.

"You look as if you could carry a fair-sized load, William, provided it bore the right label," suggested the visitor, entirely amiable.

"But nobody has felt worse over this thing and recent things—"

"Recent things," echoed the easy chair.

"—happening to the division than I have. Now I know there's been trouble on the division—"

"I think you are putting it too strong there, Bill, but let it pass."

"—there's been differences; misunderstandings and differences. So I say to myself maybe something might be done to get everybody together and bury the differences, like this: Murray Sinclair is in town; he feels bad over this thing, like any railroad man would. He's a mountain man, quick as the quickest with a gun, a good trailer, rides like a fiend, and can catch a streak of sunshine traveling on a pass. Why not put him at the head of a party to run 'em down?"

"Run 'em down," nodded the stranger.

"Differences such as be or may be—" "May be—"

"Being discussed when he brings 'em in dead or alive, and not before. That's what I said to Murray Sinclair, and Murray Sinclair is ready for to take hold this minute and do what he can if he's asked. I told him plain I could promise no promises; that, I says, lays with George McCloud. Was I right, was I wrong? If I was wrong, right me; if I was right, say so. All I want is harmony."

The new man nodded approval. "Bully, Bill!" he exclaimed, heartily. "Mister," protested the lineman, with simple dignity, "I'd just a little rather you wouldn't bully me nor Bill."

"All in good part, Bill, as you shall see; all in good part. Now before Mr. McCloud gives you his decision I want to be allowed a word. Your idea looks good to me. At first I may say it didn't. I am candid; I say it didn't. It looked like setting a dog to catch his own tail. Mind you, I don't say it can't be done. A dog can catch his own tail; they do do it," proclaimed the stranger in a low and emphatic undertone. "But," he added, moderating his utterance, "when they succeed—who gets anything out of it but the dog?"

Bill Dancing, somewhat clouded and not deeming it well to be drawn into any damaging admissions, looked around for a cigar, and not seeing one, looked solemnly at the new Solomon and stroked his beard. "That is how it looked to me at first," concluded the orator; "but, I say now it looks good to me, and as a stranger I may say I favor it."

Dancing tried to look unconcerned and seemed disposed to be friendly. "What might be your line of business?"

"Real estate. I am from Chicago. I sold everything that was for sale in Chicago and came here to stake out the Spanish Sinks and the Great Salt Lake—yes. It's drying up and there's an immense opportunity for claims along the shore. I've been looking into it."

"Into the claims or into the lake?" asked McCloud.

"Into both; and, Mr. McCloud, I want to say I favor Mr. Dancing's idea, that's all. Right wrongs no man. Let Bill see Sinclair and see what they can figure out." And having spoken, the stranger sank back and tried to look comfortable.

"I'll talk with you later about it, Bill," said McCloud, briefly.

"Meantime, Bill, see Sinclair and report," suggested the stranger.

"It's as good as done," announced Dancing, taking up his hat, "and, Mr. McCloud, might I have a little advance for cigars and things?"

"Cigars and ammunition—of course. See Sykes, William, see Sykes; if the office is closed go to his house—and see what will happen to you—" added the visitor in an aside, "and tell him to telephone up to Mr. McCloud for instruction," he concluded, unceremoniously.

"Now why do you want to start Bill on a fool business like that?" asked McCloud, as Bill Dancing took long steps from the room toward the office of Sykes, the cashier.

"He didn't know me to-day, but he will to-morrow," said the stranger, reflectively. "Gods, what I've seen that man go through in the days of the giants! Why, George, this will keep the boys talking, and they have to do something. Spend the money; the company is making it too fast anyway; they moved 22,000 cars one day last week. Personally I'm glad to have a little fun out of it; it will be hell pure and undefiled long before we get through. This will be an easy way of letting Sinclair know I am here. Bill will report me confidentially to him as a suspicious personage."

To the astonishment of Sykes, the superintendent confirmed over the telephone Dancing's statement that he was to draw some expense money. Bill asked for $25. Sykes offered him two, and Bill with some indignation accepted five. He spent all of this in trying to find Sinclair, and on the strength of his story to the boys borrowed five dollars more to prosecute the search. At ten o'clock that night he ran into Sinclair playing cards in the big rooms above the Three Horses.

The Three Horses, still rears its hospitable two-story front in Fort street, the only one of the Medicine Bend gambling houses that goes back to the days of '67; and it is the boast of its owners that since the key was thrown away, 39 years ago, its doors have never been closed, night or day, except once for two hours during the funeral of Dave Hawk. Bill Dancing drew Sinclair from his game and told him of the talk with McCloud, touching it up with natural enthusiasm. The bridegroom took the news in high good humor and slapped Dancing on the back. "Did you see him alone, Bill?" asked Sinclair, with interest. "Come over here, come along. I want you to meet a good friend. Here, Harvey, shake hands with Bill Dancing. Bill, this is old Harvey Du Sang, meanest man in the mountains to his enemies and the whitest to his friends—eh, Harvey?"

Harvey seemed uncommunicative. Studying his hand, he asked in a sour way whether it was a jackpot, and upon being told that it was not, pushed forward some chips and looked stupidly up—though Harvey was by no means stupid. "Proud to know you, sir," said Bill, bending frankly as he put out his hand. "Proud to know any friend of Murray Sinclair's. What might be your business?"

Again Du Sang appeared abstracted. He looked up at the giant lineman, who, in spite of his own size and strength, could have crushed him between his fingers, and hitched his chair a little, but got no further toward an answer and paid no attention whatever to Bill's extended hand.

"Cow business, Bill," interposed Sinclair. "Where? Why, up near the park, Bill, up near the park. Bill is an old friend of mine, Harvey. Shake hands with George Seagrue, Bill, and you know Henry Karg—and old Stormy Gorman—well, I guess you know him, too," exclaimed Sinclair, introducing the other players. "Look here a minute, Harvey."

Harvey, much against his inclination, was drawn from the table and retired with Sinclair and Dancing to an empty corner, where Dancing told his story again. At the conclusion of it Harvey rather snorted. Sinclair asked questions. "Was anybody else there when you saw McCloud, Bill?"

"One man," answered Bill, impressively.

"Who?"

"A stranger to me."

"A stranger? What did he look like?"

"Slender man and kind of odd talking, with a sandy mustache."

"Hear his name?"

"He told me his name, but it's skipped me, I declare. He's kind of dark-complected like."

"Stranger, eh?" mused Du Sang; his eyes were wandering over the room.

"Slender man," repeated Bill, "but I didn't take much notice of him. Said he was in the real estate business."

"In the real estate business? And did he sit there while you talked this over with the college guy?" muttered Du Sang.

"He is all right, boys, and he said you'd know his name if I could speak it," declared Bill.

"Look anything like that man standing with his hands in his pockets over there by the wheel?" asked Du Sang, turning his back carefully on a newcomer as he made the suggestion.

"Where—there? No! Yes, hold on, that's the man there now! Hold on, now!" urged Bill, struggling with the excitement of ten hours and ten dollars in one day. "His name sounded like Fogarty."

As Dancing spoke, Sinclair's eyes riveted on the new face at the other side of the gambling room. "Fogarty, hell!" he exclaimed, starting. "Stand right still, Du Sang; don't look around. That man is Whispering Smith."

"Fogarty, Hell!" He Exclaimed.

SHE THINKS IT A MIRACLE

PEOPLE ARE GOING MANY MILES TO SEE.

So much talk is created by the Root Juice scientist and his new discovery that scores of people are going many miles to Fort Wayne, Ind., from every direction to see and learn all they can about the new remedy that seems to in a short while cure the very worst forms of rheumatism, stomach and kidney troubles and nervous weakness. Mrs. E. G. Moore said:

"I had just seven doctors treating me at different times for chronic stomach troubles and female weakness. I was reduced to skin and bones, and was so weak I couldn't feed myself when I commenced to take the wonderful juice. After taking it a few days I was recovering flesh and strength with such rapidity I felt a miracle was being performed. A few bottles of the remedy completely cured me after all of the doctors failed to do any good; but I am not the only one, as many of my neighbors have been cured by the great medicine. It seems to heal medicine. It is truly a wonderful medicine. It seems to heal and invigorate every organ of the body.

The proper way and method of treating a cough or cold is to first of all gently move the bowels. This you can most conveniently do by taking a dose or two of Bees Laxative Cough Syrup. It's pleasant to take acts promptly. (L. Dren like it. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

CITY OF MISFORTUNE.

Former Disasters in Acapulco—City Wrecked by Mexican Earthquake.
Little Acapulco, the Mexican city with its 5,000 inhabitants which was entirely destroyed by the recent earthquake in Mexico, has achieved world-wide fame as a city of misfortune.

Twice this year has it been the scene of a catastrophe. On Feb. 15 300 persons were burned to death when the Flores theater was set on fire by a moving picture machine and destroyed at a special performance in honor of Governor Flores of the state of Guerrero.

Several times before the city has been damaged by severe earthquakes. In fact, the state of Guerrero is known as the home of seismic disturbances. Its severest shock occurred in 1907.

The whole region suffered, and Chilpancingo, the capital city, was practically destroyed. In 1908 Chilpancingo, a city of some 15,000 inhabitants, was badly damaged, and March 27 of the same year that city was again shaken, completing the ruin of the former shock.

Nevertheless, Acapulco, beset by tropic perils and cursed by a hot, unhealthy climate, is one of the most beautiful spots in the world. Its name, a corruption and abbreviation of Aqua Pulchra (beautiful waters), rings true. The coast at this point is sheer cliff. Not till the steamer is almost upon it does the bluff walled, blue channel to Acapulco harbor appear.

Acapulco harbor is one of the finest in the world. It lies 231 miles southwest of Mexico City, of which it was formerly the seaport. It had been for centuries the chief center of commerce with the Philippine Islands as well as with China and India. By pack trail the merchandise went overland from Acapulco to Mexico City and points beyond. Then came the railroad through from the capital to San Blas, and with it departed the commercial importance of Acapulco.

Chilpancingo, with a population of 12,000, is the largest city in Guerrero. Chilpancingo, the capital, is a small town in the center of the state, about 200 miles from Mexico City and about 110 miles from the coast. It was well built and lighted by electricity. Its population was about 7,000.

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATION

Workmen Testify Against Pressed Steel Car Company.

HINTS AT PEONAGE CHARGES

It is Now Said That Owing to Disclosures Made at Present Hearing at Schoenville, the Government Will Bring Charges Against Minor Officials of the Car Company—A Hungarian Workman Gave Testimony to the Effect That He Was Compelled to Work Against His Will.

Pittsburg, Aug. 27.—The first testimony offered in the government investigation into the charges of peonage against officials of the Pressed Steel Car company in Schoenville, where 3,500 employees are on strike, in which it is alleged force was used to compel imported workmen to work, developed late yesterday afternoon.

The Pressed Steel Car company's attorney attempted to hold the man who testified that he was made to work against his will, but this was prevented by the Austro-Hungarian consular attorney and the assistant federal district attorney.

All testimony was taken in the form of affidavits. Of the first dozen witnesses called, little information upon which to base peonage charges was elicited, the witnesses for the greater part declaring that their food had been bad and their treatment rough, but citing no definite persons as being responsible.

Alexander Friedman, a Hungarian of New York, was the witness who made the sensational charges of the day. He said he was brought here fifteen days ago with 100 other men from New York, and alleges they were brought under false impressions. He said the workmen were given to understand there was no strike at the works of the Pressed Steel Car company. He said he was in the plant several days before he learned of the strike. Friedman alleged that the car company picked out the strongest-looking imported workmen and made guards of them. He testified these guards handled the men in a rough manner.

Friedman said he had been at work in the plant a few days when he was asked if he did not want to make some overtime money, and when he replied affirmatively he was taken to the kitchen of the commissary of the car plant and told to work there. Friedman said he refused. After so doing he stated he was roughly handled by the workmen guards, who took him to the box-car jalls. Constabulary officers refused to lock him up, he testified. Friedman said the workmen guards then took him before company officials and asserted the officials said they would compel him to work in the kitchen. This they succeeded in doing, according to the witness, who was also told that his pay for the hour's enforced work would be his supper.

Friedman did not claim he had been forced to stay inside of the car plant, but stated he could point out men who had been compelled to remain at work against their wills.

The investigation is being continued today. United States District Attorney Jordan refused to comment on the disclosures, but it is said by those in a position to know, that suit on peonage charges will more than likely be filed against minor officials of the car plant within the next ten days. A suit against President Hoffstot is unlikely, according to attorneys interested in the case.

HARRIMAN SHUT OFF FROM THE OUTSIDE

The Wizard's "Rest Cure" Is to Be Complete.

Arden, N. Y., Aug. 27.—It is quite evident that Edward H. Harriman's family has determined that he shall make no further sacrifices of vitality in the effort to reassure the public and buoy up the stock market. No armed guards patrol his estate, but for all effective purposes of human intercourse, his isolation on his mountain top is as absolute as any devised for an eastern potentate. Except the selected few of his own immediate entourage, not a soul sees him and no word from the outer world reaches to his chamber in the solitude. His "rest cure" is absolute.

All approaches to the grounds are picketed and admission is denied outsiders. The telephone operator at Arden with access on a direct line to the house has orders to make no connections from the outside. The mountain carriage road and the private railway to the heights are both forbidden to everyone but the household. It is impossible to reach Mr. Harriman, either directly or indirectly, unless by his own wish or that of his family communicated from within the gates.

THE CONSUL'S MISTAKE

Distinguished Russian Thought Bomb Throwers Would Get Him.

New York, Aug. 27.—A loud report just behind his automobile caused Baron Schlippenbach, the Russian consul general, to leap from the machine on Fifth avenue and grasp the arm of a traffic patrolman, Alek Nittel. The consul general's face was as white as chalk. "He thought it was a bomb," said Nittel in relating the incident, "but it was only the explosion of one of his rear tires."
